

Our History:

Founding

Founded in 1988 by Home Missionaries and Deaconesses, the National Association of Deaconesses, Home Missioners, and Home Missionaries was founded to advocate for our community.

What We've Done

- Advocacy by NADHM kept the Deaconess movement alive in the United Methodist Church,
- Motivated the creation of the Home Missioners, and most recently,
- Provided the impetus for the designation of the Deaconess & Home Missioner movement to be recognized as a lay order in the United Methodist Church.

The purposes of this Association are to:

Provide an independent voice for United Methodist Deaconesses, Home Missioners and Home Missionaries both within The United Methodist Church structure and in the larger society;

Provide various programs, support, resources and activities that enable the development of a sense of community among its members;

And further the ability of commissioned/consecrated workers to carry out their ministries of service and social justice.

All of these purposes are seen as celebrating the love of Jesus Christ and the arrival of the Kingdom of God in the midst of a troubled world. (NADHM Bylaws, Article 3)
